COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Recently 1,000 yards of sand was stockpiled at the Town Garage for winter roads. Thirty-five tons of salt was added to the sand to improve the adhesive quality of the material on icy roads. This is the same amount that was stockpiled for last winter, and if the winter is normal should be ample for our requirements.

Payments on 1957 taxes through Nov. 15th are nearly double in comparison to a year ago. One factor is the reason that the bills were mailed out a little earlier this year.

The town books close on Dec. 31st and all taxes must be paid by this date. If not paid the name of the delinquent taxpayer is printed in the town report. The taxpayer is then subject to any of several collection procedures that the collector has at his discretion.

About two weeks ago notices were mailed to individuals who were listed as having a dog on April 1st but had not paid the required license fee. To date the response has been very good, over two thirds of those notified have either paid the license or notified the office that their dog was killed.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 20th, there will be a Special Town Meeting at Odeon Hall. The purpose is to act on one article concerning the extension of Eden Lane. A copy of the warrant is to be found elsewhere in this paper. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Sincerely,

Harold L. Bean

MUSKIE URGES SUCCESSFUL COMPLETE REGISTRATION OF VICTIMS OF ARTHRITIS

Governor Edmund S. Muskie asked the people of Maine today to bring the state's first Arthritis Registration to a successful conclusion in the remaining days of November.

The Governor noted that reports to the Pine Tree Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, show that the registration is lagging in some sections of Maine.

"Facts are the basis for action," the Governor said. "The facts on the number of persons in Maine who have arthritis are important in whatever future action may be taken to lighten the burden of this crippling disease."

"It is clear that thousands of Maine men, women and children have the misfortune to suffer from arthritis or rheumatism. I urge them to be sure to fill out a registration card at once if they have not yet done so."

The registration is free, voluntary, and involves no obligation. Registration cards are available in all Maine drug stores.

BETHEL PRE-SCHOOL CHILD CENSUS SHOWS PRIMARY GRADE DROP

Indications are that there may be a leveling-off at that time. Below are figures for classes entering in the Bethel schools for the next five years. You will note that the class averages for the next five year period are somewhat smaller than the averages for the present four primary grades.

ACROSS the DESK

From the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N. C. Just in case Right-to-Work laws might become popular in this so-called "Land of the Free and Home of the Brave," the latest gimmick of organized Labor is to PERMIT workers who do not wish to join unions to merely pay dues!

The theory is that since such workers will enjoy advantages the unions have fought for through the years, they should contribute toward union support whether they believe in unionism or not. To the unionists, this position may appear just and logical. All that is wrong with it is that the unions would continue to fall on the side of all who work in the areas they have staked out for themselves; those opposed would contribute to growing union power in the same measure as loyal members; and the Right-to-Work principle, even though established by law, would be nullified in practice.

Under such an arrangement, a non-union worker would still be pressured into paying tribute to a union for the privilege of working in this case for trying to assert a freedom that he obviously would not have.

If this theory is right, a few-folded-union member should pay back-dues for all the years his union may have been struggling for the wages and benefits he now enjoys—perhaps since before he was born. Or a bricklayer (for instance) should perhaps make a contribution to the architect who decided on brick instead of something else for the building he is working on, to the brickyard and to the people whose lime and sand provides him with mortar. If this theory is right, the teacher who is voted a raise should bring apples to the kids—instead of vice versa.

Such a proposal is, purely and simply, a shake-down to provide unions with funds to fight Right-to-Work laws. And this in turn suggests that any organization that can maintain its position only through fear and force has outlived its usefulness.

Powerful and rich as they are, the unions should stop and reflect that the greatness of the labor movement stems from members who considered it a privilege to join—voluntarily. Union officials must revive this sentiment in the hearts of workers if organized labor is to live. It will not be done by taxing those who want no part of unionism.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

There is peace in Budapest today—peace and quiet—but it is the peace of a graveyard and the quiet of a detention ward. Thus writes Harrison E. Salisbury, a Pulitzer Prize winner and a correspondent of wide experience behind the Iron Curtain, in the New York Times Magazine. Mr. Salisbury recalls in poignant detail the Hungarian revolt of October of last year—an event that altered the whole free world, and, afterwards, made the whole free world ashamed that it could do or did so little for a while—a few days—it seemed as if this incredible battle against tyranny, led by a comparatively handful of ill-armed Hungarian fighters, might actually succeed. The divided secret police were defeated, and many of them killed; the regime was temporarily overthrown and a new one installed. But this lasted a pitifully short time. The Hungarian fighters waited and asked for help that never came. Then a great mechanized Soviet army rolled in and the revolt was drowned in its own blood. The puppet regime was restored to power, backed with bayonets, tanks and all the apparatus of terror. Some 30,000 men and women died in a vain fight for liberty. Their skulls have been used as symbols of Soviet brutality.

What is life like in captive Hungary now, little more than a year later? That question is vividly answered by Allan A. Michie, reporting to a recent issue of Newsweek. The spirit of active resistance of the great mass of the Hungarian people has not been quenched. But the means of resistance have been almost entirely destroyed.

that. The result, Mr. Michie quotes a Western diplomat as saying, is that "the whole nation is in a state of sullen, passive resistance." Workers are doing the very minimum, and they deliberately waste raw materials and produce imperfect goods. The government of Premier János Kadar has offered pacifications in the form of somewhat higher living standards. But, Mr. Michie says, the country undergoes dangerous economic pressure. Revolt losses were extremely heavy, and among them were the 150,000 refugees who escaped the country. These included a high proportion of skilled workers.

Premier Kadar—once, ironically, considered a moderate—made all manner of promises during and immediately after the revolt, free democratic elections among them. A current Budapest saying, which has a hard base in truth, declares that Kadar has "broken every promise and kept every threat." Intellectuals and other leaders are favorite targets of persecution and suppression. An idea of what is happening in this regard can be gained from something said by the powerful Minister of State, Gyorgy Marosán. "All my life I have hated the gentry. Lately the scholars, because every one of them is a rotten, no-good counter-revolutionary, and I would like nothing better than to hang them from the nearest tree on a rope woven from their own intestines."

What of the future of this and other Soviet satellites? Here Mr. Michie's somber view: "The only ray of hope now for Hungary, and for all the captive nations of the Soviet empire, is that Russia's marshals may one day recognize that in an age of ballistic warfare a defeated territory is more of a liability than an asset. It is a faint hope at best."

was powerless to aid the needy. Then one Salvationist had an idea. The kettle was rinsed out, and hung beside the street, with a sign "Keep the kettle boiling." Interested passers-by dropped in contributions. The day was saved.

So great was the appeal of The Salvation Army kettle, that the public adopted it as a symbol of Christmas aid.

SPRINGFIELD, La., Progress: "Get your hands on the August issue of The Ladies Home Journal, a publication which we confess we really love in the far west. However, in the August issue of that publication is an article by Dorothy Thompson, under the title, 'Most of Us Should Be Cautious.' I am remembering exactly. At any rate, there's food for thought therein."

Somerset, Ky. Journal: "The possibility of using discarded highway patrol cars is currently being considered in many areas. Such an idea has often been discussed, always with a sense of public indignation that use of unmarked cars in traffic action, how we believe that it would be entirely justified in light of the terrible slaughter taking place on the nation's highways."

PROGRESS?

MAINE FEATURED ON N.B.C.'s "MONITOR"

"Maine ranks as one of the greatest natural playgrounds in the world, but its abundant water power attracted industry as early as 1800, and the influx continues today at an accelerated pace," said Alex Dreier in his Salute to Maine Sunday, Nov. 10, on NBC-Monitor over a coast-to-coast radio network.

Radio stations WRDO, Augusta; WLBZ, Bangor; WCSH, Portland; and WNAC, Boston, Mass., were among the nearly 200 NBC Network stations carrying the tribute.

The Maine salute was one of a series of radio programs featuring Alex Dreier, who has been a top NBC news analyst for 17 years. Governor Edmund S. Muskie addressed the nation's radio audience at the start of the broadcast, saying, "The State of Maine is famous as a vacation wonderland, with our thousands of miles of coastline, our myriad lakes and streams. But are equally proud of our thriving industry and agriculture. Our thanks to Alex Dreier for this radio tribute. Once you visit Maine, you'll want to come again."

A vivid picture of Maine's millions of wild acres of timber, jagged lakes and streams, jagged coastline, deep harbors, and tall mountains was given by Alex Dreier. "The Pine Tree State remains one of the most beautiful and unchangingly beautiful places in the world," he said. "It is nature's omnibus, offering something for everyone, from the antique collectors who haunt the inland towns and fashionable villages to the wealthy and fashionable who find Bar Harbor, Dark Harbor and York Harbor bracing in the summer. Towns like Ogunquit bring out the brush and palette in the cathedrals and on the rugged rugged types head for those rugged woods filled with quonset, they have continued to suffer black bear, deer and grouse. There fer in silence while dogs destroyed are no more wild Indians to fight, their property, frightened their fierce Penobscot or Passamaquoddy slumbers."

dy lurks behind the next bend in the road, and a boy can actually see him there, deep in the dark green forest.

"The first permanent settlement was made on the Saco River in 1623 and the centuries-old game of trying to tame Maine began," he continued. "It is still going on, and the latest score-card shows that Maine is still winning."

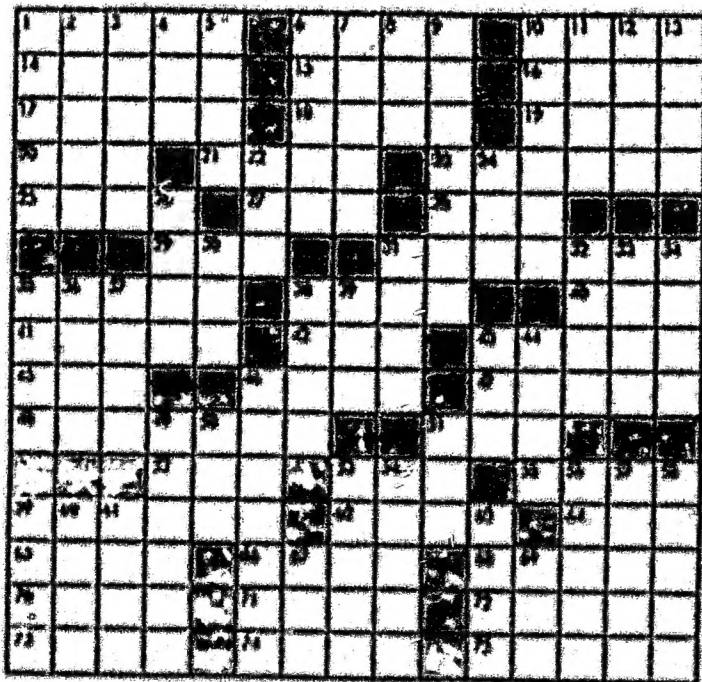

Dreier paid tribute to Maine's famous native sons and daughters, among them: Thoreau, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Harriet Beecher Stowe and painter Winslow Homer. He described Maine's busy cities:

"More than 75,000 people toll in Portland, Maine's chief seaport, handler of two million tons of produce each year, home of giant fishing and paper and food-packing plants, headquarters of the North Atlantic Fleet during World War II," he said. "Lewiston is the textile and shoe manufacturer, the state capital, has paper manufacturing and cotton goods industries; Kittery specializes in submarine repair for the U. S. fleet; Bangor is the most easterly city in the nation, and Norway is home of the world's largest sawmills. Mount Katahdin is the first place of U. S. soil to greet the morning sun each day."

"This is the place to come, this mighty Maine," Dreier concluded, "rich in water and wood and wit and wisdom; a place to linger, to walk slowly and observe carefully; to relax, to live a little longer, and to enjoy doing it."

Fairport, N. Y., Herald-Mail: "Ordinarily neighbors are reluctant to protest or make trouble for their friends next door. They feel that like Ogunquit bring out the brush and palette in the cathedrals and on the rugged rugged types head for those rugged woods filled with quonset, they have continued to suffer black bear, deer and grouse. There fer in silence while dogs destroyed are no more wild Indians to fight, their property, frightened their fierce Penobscot or Passamaquoddy slumbers."

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, November 21
Read Acts 1:1-4.

Ye shall receive power, . . . ye shall be witnesses unto me. (Acts 1:1-8).

It has been said that if one places a goose on the floor and draws a chalk circle around it not even food can cause the goose to cross the line.

Because of the chalk mark of fear, many Christians will not witness for Christ. They are silent when an unclear story is told, fear to speak to a non-Christian. They are moral cowards.

During the war, an English battalion had a popular chaplain. He thought it wise to pretend he did not hear what was being said at times.

One day he was replaced. One night the new chaplain was at a dinner in the officers' mess. The colonel expressed himself, as usual, in colorful language. The new chaplain was soon on his feet. "Pardon me, sir, but you would expect a man to do his duty. It is my duty to tell you that your language is an offense both to God and man."

There was an awful silence. Then the colonel spoke, "The man's right."

The morale of a community can be changed when even one person has courage to witness for Christ.

Prayer
Help us, O Lord, to be willing to receive the power of the Holy Spirit in order to be witnesses for Thee. We pray in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . . Amen."

Thought For The Day
God will give us courage if we ask Him.

GERMANY RE-ENACTS A STORY
West Germany is the leading industrial nation of Europe, the world's largest exporter of automobiles and is possessed of a currency so sound that she has served as a banker for two of the victorious nations of World War II—Great Britain and France.

East Germany, under the iron-bound control of Communism, still lies in ruin, hunger and poverty, although Germans with the same skills and abilities to work hard live there.

The key point accounting for this difference is that for the past nine years West Germany has followed an aggressive free-enterprise policy and taken advantage of the tremendous constructive force of private initiative backed by the assurance of profit for successful ventures. Timed to come at approximately the same period as drastic currency reforms, nearly all the rationing and myriad government controls which had shackled the West Germany economy were lifted at one stroke in mid-1948.

In the words of U. S. News & World Report: "The combination worked wonder from the start. There was an immediate surge in business activity. Overnight, empty shops were filled with commodities that before had been hoarded or hidden for better deals. Money once again had meaning. A free market guided prices to more realistic levels. Debt had been reduced by 90 per cent. A policy of sound money received priority."

"Sound money in a free market that determines prices were basic to the whole story of West German recovery."

The contrast between conditions in East and West Germany could hardly be more startling. In rapid form, with a new setting and different characters, this divided country has in a few years time, re-enacted the story of America's development as contrasted with the countries of the old world. The story of the two Germanys proves once again that with suitable ground rules everyone benefits most when individuals are allowed the freedom, opportunity and incentive to work out their own problems. This is a lesson which should be taken to heart by every American and acted upon before the principles of individual freedom, responsibility and initiative are compromised here severely.

THREE NEEDS

Lincoln H. Baker, an officer of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, speaking at the University of Texas Great Issues Forum, named three needs as being of vital importance today in the labor-management field.

First, there is a need to recognize the community of interest between employer and employee, and for each to meet the responsibilities that arise from this relationship.

Second, there is a need to return to more direct dealings between employer and employee through an adjustment of the power exerted by great foundations of unions.

Third, there is the need for employer and employee to work together in fighting inflation. This can best be done, in his view, by striving to raise the productivity of labor and by restraining demands for wage and price increases.

He added that the tremendous growth of unions and their combination into giant federations has resulted in long-distance bargaining, far removed from the scene of work, and has thus tended to obscure the community interest between employer and employee. These developments, he said, make matters worse, have given the unions a bargaining power out of all proportion to that of any individual employer and beyond that needed to achieve legitimate objectives.

Public opinion long ago demanded the curbing of monopoly power in business and finance. There are many signs that are now demanding that comparable steps be taken with labor monopolies.

Conserving the natural resources of Maine is one of the educational objectives of the Maine Extension Service.

GOULD ACADEMY

Elected Captain of the 1958 football squad at a recent meeting of the team was Albert Sumner of Bethel.

French Club (by Roz Liston)

The French Club of Gould Academy, sponsored by Mr. Auger, a recent addition to the faculty, has presented several interesting programs to its members during the meetings, which are held twice a month. The officers of this organization who were elected by their classmates are President, "Roz Liston of Wilton, Conn.; Vice-President, Sara Ault of Wayne; Secretary, Susan Merrill of Skowhegan; and Treasurer, William Gallagher of Naples.

Miss Kimball gave a most informative talk on her trip to Europe last summer and also showed a group a series of slides, which revealed some of the famous landmarks found on the Continent, as well as the general atmosphere and landscapes common to the various countries she visited.

Mr. Auger discussed the system of education in France and brought out the main points of his subject by means of colored slides which depicted the method of schooling prevalent in that country. The topic proved to be quite enlightening and gave the French Club members a better understanding of life in France, particularly in respect to the student and his educational facilities.

Movies, more talks, and some social events are on the agenda for the coming weeks; so this year's French Club is certainly able to look forward to a very rewarding year!
